

Henry J. Carter Specialty Hospital & Nursing Facility, New York, NY

Henry J. Carter Specialty Hospital & Nursing Facility, a new state-of-the-art building, links on a new first floor concourse with the adjacent reconstructed 201 bed North General Hospital to many community destinations. These include a music room, an instructional kitchen, a community performance space, a chapel, and an outdoor garden.

Geddis Architects was selected as the Associate Architect to Array Architects to bring "culture change" to the architectural design of the new center.

The new 164 bed center, including a 32 bed ventilator unit and bariatric suites on each floor, is designed on a modified "household model." There are decentralized lounges and living rooms with natural light and vistas on each floor plus a therapeutic bathing spa.

Each floor has an outdoor porch near the staff station and living room.

client

NYC Health & Hospitals Corporation

area

133,864 sf, six stories

completion

October 2013

cost

$285 Million

